

COOKIES POLICY

The BNP Paribas Group is committed to delivering the best possible service to you while maintaining the confidence that you place in us.

As part of this, we have adopted strong principles across the Group to ensure the protection of your data.

As such, we would like to provide you with transparent information about how we place, use and store cookies on your device when you use our website and you present the option to manage and to delete cookies.

1. What is a cookie?

Cookies are small text, image or software files that are placed on your device when you access our Website. The word “device”, when used in this Cookies Policy, refers notably to computers, smartphones, tablets and all other devices used for accessing the internet.

Cookies may be either: (i) session specific, meaning that they are deleted from your device once the session and browser are closed; or (ii) persistent meaning that they will remain on your device until they are removed.

Cookies perform a number of useful functions, such as to:

- Authenticate and identify you on our Website in order to provide you with services that you have requested;
- Enhance the security of the Website, including to prevent fraudulent use of login credentials and protect user data from access by unauthorised parties;
- Send you personalised advertising notably based on your browsing history and your preferences on line ;
- Monitor your use of our Website in order to improve them;
- Enhance your user experience by adapting and tailoring the content on the Website to your interest and providing more relevant BNP Paribas ads and content to you on non-BNP Paribas websites and non-BNP Paribas applications.
- Remember information that you provided to us (e.g. to automatically populate forms with information that you have previously provided to us so that you can log on more quickly);
- Keep track of your preferences and settings in your use of our Website (e.g. time zone etc.);

2. What kind of information can be stored in a cookie?

The information stored by the cookies on your device may relate to the following, subject to its retention period:

- the webpages you have visited on that device;
- the advertisements you have clicked on;
- the type of browser you use;
- your IP address;
- and any other information that you have provided on our Website.

Cookies may contain personal data. Where we use cookies which collect your personal data, such collection is covered by our Data Protection Notice.

3. What kinds of cookies do we use and for what purpose?

Cookies used on our Websites are classified into different categories.

3.1. Strictly necessary cookies (mandatory)

These cookies are essential for the Site to function properly. They may include, for example, cookies which collect session ID and authentication data, cookies that make it possible to personalize the interface of a Site (for example, for the choice of the language or presentation of a service) or some audience measurement cookies. This category also includes cookies that allow us to comply with our legal obligations, including ensuring a safe online environment (for example by detecting repeated login failures in order to prevent unauthorized persons from reaching your account).

3.2. Preference cookies (subject to your consent)

These cookies allow us and our partners to personalize and offer the content and features of the Sites (and in particular the display of our products and services). They are used to improve our Site and your user experience.

3.3. Analytics cookies (subject to your consent)

These cookies allow us and our partners to understand how users arrive on our Site, to measure the number of visitors to our Site, but also to analyze the way in which visitors browse the Site or reconstitute their journey.

This helps us improve the way our Sites work by ensuring, for example, that users easily find what they are looking for.

3.4. Advertising cookies and tracking cookies (subject to your consent)

There are different categories of cookies used to propose you advertising. Information obtained through advertising cookies is frequently shared with our partners through the use of third-party cookies.

- Personalized advertising cookies

These cookies are used to provide you with adverts more tailored to you and your interests. These cookies record your visit to our Website, the pages you have visited and the links you have followed. We use and our partners this information in order to personalize our Site and the advertisements therein, if any, according to your areas of interest.

They can also be used to display personalized advertisements on our products on other sites, to measure the effectiveness of an advertising campaign, to limit the frequency of distribution (that is to say to limit the number of times that you see an ad), affiliate ad, click fraud detection, market research, product improvement, debugging.

- Non-personalized advertising cookies

These cookies allow us and our partners to display advertisements that are not personalized to your profile. These cookies can be used exclusively to measure the performance of a marketing campaign.

- Geolocated advertising cookies

These cookies allow us and our partners to show you personalized advertising based on your location (geolocated advertising).

3.5. Social networks and content sharing cookies (subject to your consent)

- Social network cookies:

These cookies allow us and our partners to share information with the social networks used on our Sites. The display of this type of content on our Sites shares information about your browsing on our Sites with the social networks used.

- Content sharing cookies:

These cookies allow us and our partners to offer you the viewing on our Site of content hosted on an external site.

The visualization of this type of content on our Sites involves sharing information with the hosting site about your browsing on our Sites.

4. How can you manage cookies?

To see the different categories of cookies that we use on the Site and configure your choices, you can consult the cookie management module accessible at the bottom of the page. You can modify at any time your preferences, withdraw or give again your consent at any time.

Please note that the use of strictly necessary cookies for the proper functioning of the Site does not require your consent. This is why the option "strictly necessary cookies" is pre-checked in our cookie management tool and is not optional.

By refusing certain types of cookies (preference cookies for example), we will not be able to optimize your user experience on our Site and some parts may not function properly.

By default, we save your cookie choices on a device for a maximum of 6 months. If you change your mind about the preferences you have expressed regarding cookies, you can update your choices at any time. We will ask you to make a choice again every 6 months.